

Russian Language Podcast

WHY ?

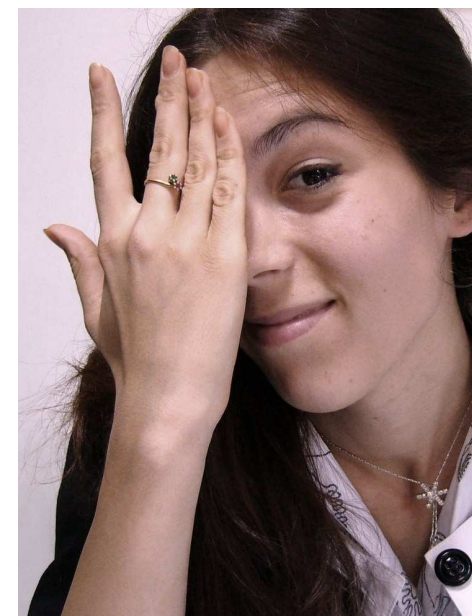

Grammar exercises and writing are important, but what will you do without a good vocabulary and a bit of humour in your studies?

Russian Language Podcast is for those who already understand a few words in Russian and can comprehend simple explanations. For those who like learning how to cope with real-life situations as well as for those who are just interested in Russian culture and mentality.

You can download these audio files and listen to them in the car, on the plane or train, while walking or jogging.

The PDF scripts are also a great tool, because they can be printed, translated, and learned by heart.

RLP uses the Communicative Method, with dialogues entirely in Russian!

WHO?

My name is Tatiana Klimova, I'm a Russian living in France, working as a Russian and French teacher, Interpreter and Tour Guide in Lyon.

I have more than five years of experience in language teaching, including Communicative Method and Skype Lessons.

Originally from Severodvinsk, small Russian town on the North, I came to France in 2005 to continue my studies in French Language and Communication.

I love foreign languages and dream of creating a language school based on modern technologies, a school where all your senses would be influenced, where you would smell, hear and feel the language you're studying.

The idea of creating this podcast came to me in December 2008 when I realized that I had gathered lots of dialogues used during my classes that were extremely effective. So why not share my knowledge of Russian language and teaching with all those people who are interested in Slavic culture and impatient to learn more?

So now here I am, receiving your emails and suggestions that make me go further, thank you very much for this interest!

Удачи!
